TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 16, 1869.

To Our Friends in the Country-in-

We desire, if possible, to make The News, which is already without exception the cheapest newspaper in the South, a regular visitor in every well regulated household in this and the adjoining States. As an inducement to the planters to subscribe to THE NEWS before the expira ers of the Runal Carolinian, to supply that new and superb agricultural magazine, together with The News, to all new subscribers, at the follow-

THE DAILY NEWS and the RURAL CAROLINIAN, one year, for six dollars and fifty cents. THE TRI-WEEKLY NEWS and the RUBAL CARO-sent either to the proprietors of THE NEWS, or to the proprietors of the Rural Carolinian. But persons desiring to avoit themselves of this offer must do so before the first of Junuary next, as the arrangement will not be extended beyond

-With two exceptions, both caused by ill health, all the English Catholic Bishops will take their seats at the Council of the Vatican. -The Mucon Journal and Messenger has been

month ago, had charge of its editorial columns. —The President's message has already been the subject of Cabinet consultation, and rumor says it will certainly relievate the doctrine of the first message on the financial question, and possibly ask Congress to fix on an early day for specie re-

-It is a difficult task to suit every one. The proposed revision of the English Prayer Book brings this fact out pretty prominently. Take question of a revision of the marriage serstance that some object to the phrases in it (omitted from the American version,) which speak too plainly, and, as some think, immodestly, of the marriage relation. Others think that there should be at least another form to be used in the case of persons to whom some of its assumptions do not apply. Others find it too religious, and want the service to recognize marriage as a civil rela-tion, white others think that, as it stands, it is not

-There is a row among the Mormons. The ed-or of the Utah Magazine publishes certain articles obnoxious to the policy of Brigham Young, whereupon the latter cailed a meeting of the Council and issued an order of excommunication Among other assertions, the order says that "it is apostacy to differ honestly with the measures of the President"-confirmed by a remark of President Wells that "we might as well ask the question whether a man had a right to differ with the 'Almighty." Thus the doctrine was unqualifiedly asserted that the Almighty and priesthood, so far as its official dietates were concerned, were to be accepted as one and the same thing, on pain of excommunication from the church. The rejected members have published a protest against the action of the Council. Believing in free speech, they hold that it is an illegal and an unrightcous use of the holy priesthood to expel any person from the church because they cannot con-scientiously admit the divinity of any measure presented by the priesthood. After asserting their intention to continue in their business, they prophesy that "men shall yet learn that the true mission of priesthood is to teach and not to control, and in our midst shall stand the same

The Cuban agents at Washington are about to publish a statement of the effect of General Ces-pede's proclamation regarding the destruction of the growing cane. Up to this time the Cuban insurgents have never attempted to destroy sugar plantations, except in the east end of the island, where there are very few. In the right season, when there was a company of Spanish soldiers twenty-five men was sufficient to fire the cane in half a dozen garrisoned estates almost within sight of each other. When dry enough, and before ready for the mill, the cane-fields burn like coal oil. Accidental fires have been known to spread through nine mile of sugar-cane in three hours. The burning ordered, long planned and systematized, will take place up to within an hour's ride of Havana. One hundred thousand troops could not stop it. When about one hundred estates are burned, which will occur the first week of operations, the incredulous sugar interest will begin to believe, and sugar will jump up ten per cent, at a time. A glance at the memorial of the Cubans shows: Pirst, that haif the sugar used in the United States comes from Cuba; second, that sugar and tobacco give the United States over $25,000,000 revenue; third, that the United States over $25,000,000 revenue; third, that the United States export $11,000,000 of provisions; fourth, from $5,000,000 to $7,000,000 of machinery; fifth, the profits made to $7,003,000 of machinery; fifth, the profits made in the United States by sugar reflucions. The loss to the United States he reckoned at a high figure, but is certainly $20,000,000 or $60,000,000, and that not for one year, but for the next and next, and all might have been avoided by recognition.

At last New York is to have a market which for size and beauty is not to be surpassed by any in the world. This new institution is to be located at the foot of Thirty-fourth street, North River, and ground will soon be broken. It will be a rec-tangular structure, eight hundred feet in length and two hundred in width, thus enclosing a mar-ket space of 160,000 square feet, the largest area

Thirty-fourth street and one on Thirty- sable to meet the actual wants of the mo fifth street. On either side of these en trances are seven other gates for ready ingress and egress, and seventeen spacious windows to light the stalls within. There are three distinct roofs—the great central iron span of one hundred feet and seventy-five feet in height, and those of the two wings each thirty-eight feet high. This central roof is dome-shaped, surmounted by a ventilating roof, broken 'at intervals by mina-rets. From the centre of this roof and above the south and north gates rises the grand tower to an elevation of one hundred and ninety-two feet and of the most graceful form. This tower will be constructed altogether of iron, and, at an elevation of one hundred and forty feet, will present to This side elevation of the building promises to be ket on the river front, west of Twelfth avenue, a building with open sides, the roof supported on iron columns. This building will be one hundred feet by two hundred feet, and from its western dred feet long by forty wide. The cost of the building will be $1,000,000.

The Wages of Labor.

In connection with the proposition, now assuming tangible shape, to unite the working classes of the city in one general Protective Union, it is important to determine whether the low rate of wages which now prevails is due to oppressive combinations on the part of the employers, or to natural causes alone.

The ranting demagogue roundly asserts hat all employers are tyrants, and all uncombined workmen something more abject than slaves. But the claptrap of the venal declaimer will have no lasting effect; the nore especially as those who must bear the brunt of the new movement, cannot afford to make a false start by ignoring altogether hard facts and the counsels of cool and sober reason.

At the very outset, we must admit the right of every employer to go into the market and engage his workmen at the lowest market price. There is no economic reason why he should pay one farthing more than the least rate at which the men who suit him are willing and ready to work. All that can be demanded of him, as of the workingman, is that he shall faithfully carry out the stipulations of his bargain. This is a cold-blooded view, it is true, of the connection between capital and labor; but it is, nevertheless. the true one. The priests of the new Evangel may preach that "an organized religious "influence will hereafter induce employers "to concede to their men, voluntarily, a darger share of their profit than any Trade "Union could extort from them;" and it may suit the fanciful, who have no mouths of women and children to fill, to accept the calm assurance of M. Comte that the province of the capitalist is "action and author "itative direction." Until, however, the final triumph of the Religion of Humanity, most of us will be disposed to confess that the prime object of the employer is to accumulate wealth, not to do good to the workingmen. Ethical considerations have little practical bearing upon the relations of labor and capital.

At the first glance it may seem that the freedom of the employer from all check or restraint has had much to do with keeping down the price of work. But there has been no combination among the capitalists to lower the remuneration of the worker. They have only taken cheap labor as they found it, and if one man refused to work for the price which was offered they had no difficulty in finding others who would answer their purpose as well. There was no combination to force higher wages, and a half loaf was better than none.

The real cause of the present unsatisfactory remuneration of workingmen in Charleston may be found, we firmly believe, not in a combination of employers, or an absence of combination among the employed, but in the want of capital to be used in new undertakings, and in the unprofitable nature of the investments already made and now carried on. This is enough to make labor cheap; for the supply is steadily growing in colume, while the demand is at least at a

The banking or active capital of the State was destroyed by the war, which also swept away the slave capital, which enters into the calculation at this stage only as far as it was a means of procuring monied capital, which, in one way or another, would give employment to the laborer. No foreign capital could be procured; the masses were staggering under a load of debt; all that could be relied on was the profit which should gradually accrue from agriculture and from commerce. The agriculturists have been moderately successful, and have relieved themselves of their heaviest embar rassments. They have a surplus, apart from what has been paid away, out of the State and in it, for implements and stock. This surplus is hoarded up; it is dead; it gives employment to no one, and, as a creator of priesthood that we believe in to-day, but whose greatest glory shall be that they represent a spirit from which every principle of coercion has been there is the same chain of cause and effect. there is the same chain of cause and effect. Some capital has been gathered up; but we have now less than a million dollars of banking capital against twelve or thirteen millions in 1860. There is not money enough to carry on the purely mercantile branches of our trade. We are hampered and restrained by want of means, and there is no hope of an immediate change for the better. We have now partially accounted for the absence of those expenditures in manufactures upon which depend the fortunes of the mechanic. The foundries and machine shops have not been wholly idle, but it is open to consideration whether they have not been worked as much to the profit of the workman as to that of the employer. The demand for our manufactures has been limited. and most master mechanics have done little more than hold their own. Look also at the condition of the city as affecting the bricklayers, carpenters, pair ters and workers in iron. The heart of Charleston was burned out eight years ago, and what has been done to fill up the void? The burnt district is the burnt district still. And this is susceptible of reasonable explanation. Under the slave system more house-room was necessary than is needed now. Loss of fortune compels several families to occupy the same dwelling. During the last nine years the white population-the house-building population-has not increased. Taxes are exorbitantly high, and in consequence of the absence of demand for house-room, rents are exceeding y low. Real estate does not pay more than six or seven per cent. upon ment. Still the bottom has been touched. Our prospects grow steadily brighter. But there is not yet active prosperity enough to make labor richly profitable. We have now sketched out the main reasons which appear to account for the low rates of wages of which our workingmen complain. It is our desire to see them well paid—the higher the better; but we ask them whether they can expect, under the circumstances, to obtain more pay for their work by a simple requisition that their pay be increased? They may organize thoroughly and prepare to seize the first opportunity that offers itself for improving their position. Can they, however, see their way clear to obtain, at once, an increase in wages which would swallow up the small margin of profit now left to the employers, and check, for a time at least, a great part of the work now going on ?

Two colored men have been arrested on suspicion of having fired the premises of Mr. Alfred Ayer, and are now in the Barnwell jail. The evidence against them is of such character as to leave no doubt of their guilt. Will "His Excellency" see that these men are punished as they deserve?

THE ginhouse of Mr. U. Simpson, of Barn well, was burned down one night last week. Will Governor Scott send up his constables and see that the incendiaries are brought to

THE MASON & HAMLIN ORGAN CO. WINNERS OF THE

PARIS EXPOSITION MEDAL, WHO HAVE UNIFORMLY BEEN AWARDED HIGHEST HONORS

AT INDUSTRIAL ENHIBITIONS IN THIS COUNTRY. So that their work is the acknowledged standard of excellence in its department, respectfully announce that, with extended and perfected facilities, and by the exclusive use of recent improvements, they are now producing yet more perfect ORGANS than ever before, in great variety as to style and price, adapted to all public and private uses; for Drawing Rooms, Libraries, Music Rooms, Concert Halls, Lodges, Churches, Schools, &c., in plain and elegant cases, all of which they are enabled by their unequalied facilities for manufacture to seil at prices of inferior work.

The recent improvements in these Organs have so increased their usefulness and popularity that they are unquestionably the most desirable instruments obtainable for family use as well as Churches, Schools, &c., while the prices at which they can be afforded ($60 to $1000 each) adapt them to the means and requirements of all classes. They are equally adapted to secular and sacred music, are elegant as furniture, occupy little space, are not liable to get out of order, (not requiring tuning once where a planoforte is tuned twenty times,) are very durable, and easy to learn to play upon.

The M. & H. Organ Oo. are now seiling Four AT INDUSTRIAL EXHIBITIONS IN THIS COUNTRY
